August- September 2012

Over the past month we have learned very interesting things about two of the Native American tribes, the Yurok and the Navajo. We talked about their culture, their religion, their traditions, their economy and their way of life.

This month we are looking forward to learn about my two favorite Native American tribes, the Cherokee, a tribe with a history full hardship and sorrow, but also full of hope, teaching us how can we, with courage, overcome the biggest obstacles, and the Haudenosaunee, or Iroquois, a tribe that set an example to all the citizens of the American nation, by showing us that united and in peace all problems can be worked out, and also this was one tribe that had five nations known as the Iroquois League.

We will also review all we worked in class for the midterm exam.

As a class we also went on an educational field trip to the museum Alcazar de Colon, where we learned how was the life of the first settlers that came to the island led by Cristobal Colon. Here is a picture from our trip.
