This month has been very exciting, all third graders in general have been doing great in math, and we've already had several math competitions, in all of these competitions all students were eager to be winners. Students also took their first math quiz of third grade!

We also worked on learning the place value up to hundred thousand as well as to know other ways to say numbers, like the ordinal form.

This new month will be full of different activities; we will start adding using the hundred chart which will help them break down numbers to help them add.

In the weeks to come we will start learning how to compare numbers using inequality symbols, to count money and how to make change deducting from a paid amount.
